Kashmir doesn’t think small.

Nobody ever showed Kashmir the rest of the menu.

You can’t order a dish you have never seen.

A website doesn’t bring customers. It never has.

Without a road leading to it, a website is a beautiful shop on a street nobody walks down. The lights are on. Nobody is coming.

Three things nobody tells you.

01

Google doesn’t rank you because you exist.

Ranking takes SEO: useful content, reviews, a Google Business Profile and months of steady work.

02

Nobody types your URL by accident.

Visitors come from Instagram, ads, search and people who already know you. No road, no visitors.

03

A website talks. It never follows up.

The enquiry at 11 pm, the visitor who left, last year’s customer: nobody calls them back.

A website is a touchpoint.
Not a salesman.

Money doesn't come from a website. It comes from a pipeline.
